Renard & Kiehl are painting their shop front.
The new hotel at South Edmonton is nearing completion. It looks well.

The Rev. Chas. Cunningham is said to be returning to England in October.

G. W. Hislop, manager for the Hudson Bay store will go east on to-morrow's train to buy good for the fall trade.

The front of Ross' hardware store is still in the hands of the painter. When finished the store will be a credit to the town.

At the sale of condemned mounted police horses held at Fort Saskatchewan on Thursday last small prices was the order of the day.

The Fire Brigade band will be in attendance from 7 to 10 at the Church of England picnic which comes off to-morrow at Groat's creek.

Tenders are being asked for the building of the new BULLETIN office, also S. S. Taylor's new building. Both are to be built of brick.

Not a farmer is to be seen in the town. All are busy cutting their grain. Strangers coming in from the country report large yields all round.

Glover & Andrews have moved into their new store opposite the post office. They have everything pertaining to a first class music store.

The Edmonton conservative association held their annual meeting at Robertson's hall on Friday evening last. Dr. Wilson was again elected to the chair.

Tax trenches for the Methodist Parsonage have been dug and the foundations begun. The new Baptist church is also well under way and the frame going up.

Roots are selling in town at 25c a dozen. Potatoes 25c a bushel. Flour, Ogilvie's Strong Baker $2.75, Patent Hungarian $3. XXXX $2 per hundred. Cheese 12c per pound.

The party of sports who went out to Cooking Lake on Saturday taking a cook and tent etc. with them are having a great time, and killing and eating ducks. When they return we shall expect to see them sporting feathers.

At the police court, August 28th, before Insp. Synder, J. P. and F. H. Sacke, J. P. Magher was charged with being drunk and disorderly. Fined $5.00 and cost. August 31st, one Matchless, charged with supplying liquor to the Indians. Pleading guilty and sentenced to two months hard labor. September 2nd, William Caldwell same charge 3 months hard labor.

We have received a letter from Montana written by a former resident of Fort Saskatchewan enclosing the article called "The Exodus from Canada to the United States," which we have pleasure in printing. The writer describes the financial condition of the silver states as something awful. In Montana the most of the mills and mines are shut down, and thousands have been thrown out of work. He thinks the emigration on this account from the states this fall, to Canada will be immense.

From F. Shaw we learn that the late D. Ross of Ottawa who was found dead in a field at Hamilton, Ontario, under circumstances that point to foul play was about to become a resident of Edmonton and engage here in mixed farming. In fact had sold his business interests in Ottawa and was on his way here at the time he met his death. He was a cousin of F. Fraser Times, and described by the Ottawa papers as a young man of exemplary habits and good business principles, whose death was a shock and a surprise to everybody. We only hope if it was a case of murder that the miscreants may be swiftly brought to justice, and we sympathize deeply with his friends.

ARO HANDY, who came in on last Thursday train with E. Holm from Winnipeg to collect samples of grain and grasses for the C. P. R. will remain here till Tuesday next. He has been out principally in the neighborhood of Clover Bar and Stony Plain, but yesterday went out in the direction of the Nisquon. The country all round in the growth of its vegetation has far exceeded his expectations, taking it all through he has not seen a bad or an indifferent crop in the course of his drives. He has seen wheat fields that will yield quite 50 to 60 bushels to the acre, barley the same, looking fine in color and quantity, and oats that would run up to at least a hundred bushels. Mr. Handy informs us he has gathered swine, 7 feet long, Red top six feet long, swamp grass five and a half feet long, and lots of very pretty June grass. Wild vetches he says are in great abundance everywhere, just covered with pods. Everything indicates how prolific the soil and the climate are in Northern Alberta, for nowhere can you drive without encountering a luxuriant growth of upland grass, and wildflowers in endless variety. The only drawback Mr. Handy sees against it, is this, that when you put a prairie chicken you have to hunt such a while before you can find it, the flora being so thick, and affording such cover. The car Mr. Handy is filling up will be shipped from here to Winnipeg, there the grass and grains will be sorted and arranged in bundles by men who make a specialty of that sort of work, and distributed in cases principally through Ontario. Some of the grass will be taken for the C. P. R.'s special exhibition car which travels through the East in charge of Mr. Holm. Mr. Handy is more than pleased with the samples he has got, and considers they will make a fine showing.

To-day is the birthday of our contemporary, The Times, which from now on will appear in a weekly guise under the able editorship of Mr. J. B. Spurr. May it have a long life, may it pass easily through its teething period, noted for its succinctness and resplendent with news and wit as befits a community like Edmonton. May it never know the troubles incident to early childhood, may it survive the misfortune of a premature death, may it live, bloom and blossom, a credit to itself and the party it represents.

A social in aid of the Methodist church at South Edmonton was held in the church there on Tuesday evening last. Robert McKernan took the chair and a good programme was gone through. First there was a selection from the choir, followed by a speech by Mr. Elmett, Mrs. Hockley a solo accompanied by Mr. Spurr, speech by Mr. Hanna, duet by Miss Gainer and Mr. Perry, solo by Mrs. Peters, speech by Mr. Pery, solo by Mr. Mitchell. An excellent supper was then served under the management of the ladies. After supper Mr. Spurr and Mr. Oliver May gave organ and concert music and more songs and recitations followed. The affair was a thorough success and did not break up till nearly 12 o'clock.

An accident happened on Monday night to Mayor McCauley's mail team, by which he nearly lost a valuable horse, one of a pair he had just sold. The team were over on the south side drawn up at the station, waiting for the mail. In fact one bag had been put in, and those with the wagon were after the rest, when the engine backed up and the horses took fright. They bolted off at a rapid rate down the track. After running a couple of miles the off one stumbled and fell, striking its head against the rail with terrific force, and it was left lying there for dead. The other was unhurt. On their way to the depot, the horse they had left with its skull smashed in was heard to whinny and going back they found it sitting up on its haunches. The horse was brought over to Mr. McCauley's stables and will probably recover. The wagon was but little damaged. Under no circumstances should a team be left standing unwatched unless there is someone by to watch it.

An important decision effecting the boundary of the town of Edmonton was recently given in the case of the Town of Edmonton vs. Robinson, which shows pretty clearly that a boundary in the meaning of the law is that which is clearly defined and immovable, and not something, a bar for instance subject to change or alteration by tide or other causes. On the information of P. C. Campbell, acting in behalf of the town council, before John Cameron, J.P., D. C. Robinson was charged with having violated the by-law regarding the licensing of drays and teams. The facts were that in the month of July, Mr. Robinson hauled certain loads of lumber from a point on near Ross' Bar, his team at the time standing in two feet of water. For these teams he had not taken out a license. The town contended that he hauled the lumber from a point within the municipality. The act of incorporation places the north bank of the Saskatchewan river as the southern boundary of the town. The town contended that this point being below high and low water mark was on the bank and was within the town limits. The defendant contended that he was outside of the low water mark and in the river, and second, it mattered not where outside the water mark or no, as the cut bank and high water mark constituted the bank of the river and the boundary of the town, consequently he hauled from a point without the town limits and was not liable for same. His worship after considering the matter a week decided in favor of the defendant, but consented to state the point of law for the consideration of Judge Rouleau. N. D. Beck appeared for the town and S. S. Taylor for the defendant.

The September issue of Waghorn's Guide is out. It contains full particulars of the new time cards on the Northern Pacific railway, the Manitoba and North Western and the Prince Albert branch, besides embodying general changes in other tables of travel. The post office list is added to by the addition of new post offices opened, their stage connection given and all alterations in other services recorded. The sailings of Atlantic and Pacific steamships are given with the rates of passage, accommodation, etc. Also the lake service and through connection with eastern ports.

Canadians still continue to capture prizes in the cattle and horse competitions at the World's Fair. John B. Hall, of Toronto, captured nearly all the good prizes for American-Arab horses. He took the sweepstakes and World's Fair medal for an American-Arab stallion of any age. The same owner won the sweepstakes and medal for a mare of any age of the same breed.

Dr. Sanson, of Calgary, while taking part in a cricket match on Saturday afternoon, met with a painful fracture of the left arm. While batting a ball from Bowler Cave struck him just above the elbow, breaking a small bone, which now compels him to carry his arm in a sling.

The grasshopper plague is reported to be very bad around Hamilton, Ontario. The hoppers are swarming through the fields by thousands, eating newly sprouted fall wheat and everything green. The farmers think it useless to sow any more fall wheat this year.

The Pall Mall Gazette discusses fully the recent article in the Toronto Globe on immigration failure. It says the backbone to this question to Canadians is how can the Dominion be rendered more attractive than the States to settlers of the right stamp.

Work is progressing rapidly on the construction of the C. P. R. telegraph line from Revelstoke, B. C. to the West Kootenay mining district. Gangs are working south from Revelstoke and north from Kaslo.

A syndicate of U. S. capitalists comprising J. B. Haggis, John W. MacKay and Senator Jones of Nevada, are said to have obtained control of the extensive gold mines in Beauce county, Quebec.

The overland steamer Samia of the Allan Line has been reported in tow of the Montevideo heading for Brown Head.

Chas. Carey, one of the C. P. R. mongrel engineers, and well known to the travelling public, arrived in Winnipeg from the Rockies, on his way to visit with his family the World's Fair and the east.

In a debate at the English House of Commons, Sir Edward Grey said that England would insist on the independence of Siam.

Cholera is reported to have broken out in Lincolnshire, England.

Yellow fever has broken out in Tampa, Florida, U. S. A.

THE HARVEST SEASON.

And the season of harvesting is upon us. Now is the time the farmer throws off his coat and buckles in with both hands and both feet too. If any evidence were needed of how busy the farmers is just now with his crops the deserted condition of the street would show it. At present he is a "rara avis," and only to be found out in the fields by the side of his binder, like a general at the head of his column. That this season's crop will excel last years in quality and quantity everything indicates. On all hands we hear reports of exceptional yields of wheat, barley and oats—there have been no frosts to damage the crops, and it is real royal harvest weather. Now it is the time a stranger entering the country would see it at its best, see in one short drive such a prolific growth of cereals, and wild grasses as would astonish him come from where he may. On all sides one beholds evidence of the richness of the soil, and the ripening and growing powers of Alberta's climate. The bush swarms with flowers that a naturalist would go in raptures over—wild roses nod their heads at you wherever you tread, and out on the prairie a hundred varieties of brightly tinted grasses seem to vie with each other as to who shall wear the crown. Oats that will run as high as 100 bushels an acre, and barley and wheat that go 50 and 55 isn't at all bad, and is what many of the farmers have got. Never did the harvest open more propitiously for them, and never did the country look better that it does today. All that Northern Alberta lacks is a market to dispose of its wares. This rests with God and the C. P. R. to give us, and till they do give it to us, all seems but love's labor thrown away.

THE GREAT C. & E.

"How late is the train?" This has come to be the common question on every Monday and Thursday. That it should be on time, or is on time nobody for one moment thinks or expects. Repetition invariably makes the rule, and the rule of the C. & E. or "catch me easy" line, is pull into Edmonton anywhere from 2 to 4 hours late. When it is reported over the wires that No. so and so, left Calgary on time, and the intelligence is disseminated through the town, surprise is plainly to be read on the faces of the people you meet. "Did you hear the train was on time to night?" one asks of the other incredulously, as though such a thing couldn't be, and if the answer comes in the affirmative, the rejoinder would be "No! you don't mean it, how did it manage that?"

This is rather a tough situation for Edmonton to be in. A poor ineffective mail service, so arranged that it is little better than one mail a week, and trains that are late, devilish late, and punctually late at that. The importance of the place, the way the country is filling up around us, the disadvantages the business men of the town are laboring under, all demands that the C.P.R. who are the lessees of the line should give the matter a little attention.

"Kick about it," says one. "Agitate," says another, "petition 'em," says a third but when it comes to be talked over, and threshed out the conclusion always arrived at is that it is folly to buck against a brick wall, and that a petition to quicken the time from Calgary or to effect any other reform, would have no more weight with Van Horne and the directors of the C. P. R. than the whining of a poodle dog on its master. If this is the case then it is a lamentable state of affairs. That a whole country side should be at the mercy of an all powerful corporation is something that ought not to exist in Canada anywhere in the nineteenth century. It always means a clog on the wheel of progress, the slow settling up of the district so located, and a terrible war to get rates quoted you sufficiently reasonable to ship your goods out of the place. That it is so we don't affirm, for until the matter has been properly and officially placed before the C. P. R. no one has a right to say what they will and what they won't do. Doubtless with them it is a matter of business. If it would pay them to run three trains a week between Calgary and here, probably they would do so, but it is a sure thing that their rates on all farm and vegetable product between Edmonton and the Pacific coast is not stimulating to the industry of Northern Alberta, and if they want more business, more traffic they should help the people to make it. Admitting for the present that there is not quite travel enough to run an extra train, what is there to prevent them cutting down the time between Calgary and Edmonton, and arriving at 8 in the evening instead of 10 and 11 o'clock. If the train came in at 8 and was on time, persons could get their mail the same night and by making a push if they wished to do so get an answer back on the same train, thus saving several days. This under the present service is an impossibility, and the positive inconvenience of it, is only known to those who experience it again and again. As a matter of fact there is not such a great raft of time saved by the present mail system over and above that in vogue during the old staging days. Before the C. & E. came to Edmonton, the stage brought the mail from Calgary every 5 days, and it ran on time too, at much less cost to the government than what they are paying now. Under the charter of the road, the government pays to the C. & E. $80,000 a year to carry its mail. In return what do we get? A service of two sickly trains a week, that jolt along at a ghastly funeral trot, though they roll and appear to be travelling at an unparalleled rate of speed, and that arrives gentle readers, with a great deal of effort, 3, 4 or 5 hours behind their scheduled time. This comes of trying to make one train do the work of two and run it south from Calgary to Macleod between every trip it makes North to us. Either we should have an extra train a week, or the time should be reduced so that it gets here earlier in the evening. The present evil is a crying shame, and if it is the policy of the C. P. R. not to spend a cent on the C. & E. line while they are running it, because as some say at the expiration of their lease they may not buy it, why the policy is a penny wise and a pound foolish one, injurious to the whole of the country North here and to themselves as well. They are working their immigration department for all it is worth, and doing we believe, all they can to get people to come in so that they may dispose of their land of course, but never mind that. What they are making in one way they are losing in another. There is no getting out of it. The present train service is a disgrace the mildest way you can put it, and the present freight rate south and west though lower than last year mitigates against the farmer to such a degree as to make him almost dependent on the local market for the sale of what he grows. Is this helping Northern Alberta? We have an idea it is not. A short time ago we said to a C. P. R. official—"your trains on this branch are always late." "Oh!" he said with a grin, meant to imply a great deal. "That's a good sign—it shows there is lots of traffic going into the town." Then said we—"Isn't it about time—if there is so much freight going into the place that one train can't handle, it that we should be given a better service?" His answer was—"That's a horse of another color."

A special freight train travelling at a rapid rate over the C. P. R. passed through Winnipeg last Tuesday morning from the Pacific coast for Montreal. The cargo consists of tea and other Asiatic freight, besides six cars of salmon from the Port & Winch company, British Columbia, as an experiment to the old country markets. This is the largest shipment of fresh salmon ever made from the Pacific province. The shipment consists of no less than six cars, aggregating 120,000 pounds. Railway officials state it is the biggest single shipment of its kind ever handled by any railway company on the continent.

Hon. D. H. Macmillan provincial treasurer, and Mrs Macmillan are expected early next week on return from their trip to Europe. They have been doing the World's fair on the way home,

The Canadian American published in Chicago—Has any one noticed signs of a financial panic in Canada? Are banks over there tumbling into the hands of receivers? Has it been found that its street railways are wretched pieces of property—too heavy for the shoulders of the average capitalist? Must all these questions be answered in the negative? Truth directs that they shall be. The Dominion is weathering the storm like a veteran. She is proving that the wild cat operator has not, during recent years, been allowed to boom speculative property into the clouds with the intention of swindling foreigners who have sought openings for capital within her borders. To-day Canada is sound to the core and seasonably sure of soon capturing many of the capitalists who have been bitten in the Argentine Republic as well as in Australia. The World's Fair will afford her the opportunity of placing her products before a critical and investing audience and with a reputation for honesty in descriptions of her natural resources the best result should follow. The investor in Argentine and Australian schemes will pay more attention to this continent hereafter, even now he is in the humor to transfer this money to North America."

All canneries on the Fraser River, shut down on the 31st ult. This years pack is the biggest on record, the latest estimate placing it at 471,000 cases. The largest previous pack was 303,875 cases put up in 1889. The pack on northern rivers will not exceed 80,000 cases, being smaller than the previous years.

A SHOE-A SHOE, WHO'S LOST A SHOE.

Found on the street a week ago
A single shoe with a fancy toe.
Nobly and new, and never worn
Without the mark of a hostile corn
Found on the street a week ago
A single shoe with a fancy toe.

A shoe, a shoe, with a mystery dread
Hanging over its humble head.
Where oh where is the mate I ween.
Where can its owner now be seen?
Found in the street a week ago,
A single shoe with a fancy toe.

A single shoe—by a butcher boy
Found with a burst of heartless joy.
Who picked it up and tried it on
But his foot was just one half too long.
Found in the street a week ago,
A single shoe with a fancy toe.

A shoe—a shoe—not an ugly boot
Only fit for a big galoot.
But a number seven—spick and span
Just the thing for a lady's man.
Found in the street a week ago,
A single shoe with a fancy toe.

How did it come on the pavement there?
Where is the loser, where oh where?
The rightful owner can have the same,
By paying the charges that we claim.
Found in the street a week ago,
A single shoe with a fancy toe.

NORTH WEST ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, August 30.

Linham from the immigration committee reported in favor of arrangements being made for advertising the Territories in the Western World.

Several members gave notice of motions.

Oliver moved a resolution asking the Dominion government to take steps for the preservation from extinction of the wood buffalo at Fort Smith and Fort Vermilion.

A message was received from the lieutenant-governor laying on the table the public accounts for the year.

Haultain moved the second reading of the bill to amend the interpretation ordinance, to provide that standard time should be the legal time for the purpose of the ordinances of the Territories.

Cayley moved the second reading of the bill to incorporate the city of Calgary. The bill would not be pushed through unless further word were received from Calgary but in the meantime it might go through its several stages. The town required so many amendments to the present municipal ordinance from time to time that they thought it better to adopt a new charter altogether than to continually amend the present ordinance.

Oliver's bill to make formal amendments of the elections ordinance was read a second time.

Dill's bill respecting unincorporated towns was discussed at great length in committee of the whole and progress reported to allow of the incorporation of further amendments.

REGINA, August 31.

Haultain stated in reply to Davidson's question that the expense of enforcing the ordinance respecting infectious diseases of animals last year was $1,403.80 actually expended and about $350 of liability still outstanding.

Prince asked the executive committee if Archbishop Tache had been asked to prepare a book on the Northwest for the Columbian exposition, if the works is printed, and if not, what has become of the manuscript.

Haultain replied that in December last the then executive did ask Archbishop Tache and other clergymen to prepare sketches on the Northwest. That as all the sketches desired were not received none were published, and that the manuscript would be returned to Archbishop Tache.

Magrath introduced a bill to regulate the operation of coal mines.

Jelly moved for an address to the lieutenant-governor in council regarding employees of the government offices and their salaries in terms similar to that of his resolution of a few days ago.

Haultain moved the first reading of a bill to amend the ordinance regarding revenue and expenditure.

Cayley objected that he had already given notice of an ordinance on the same subject, and that a second ordinance on the same subject required explanation. Regarding the ordinance introduced by himself its purpose was only concerning the immediate future of the present assembly. As the ordinance now stood, expenditure could go on without a vote of the house, and in all probability another session would not be held during the life of the present house. By repeating that provision a session of the assembly would be necessary in June or July a next and would give members time to oversee expenditures between the close of the session and the dissolution of the assembly.

Haultain agreed that the present provision gave opportunities for unconstitutional action such as the house had seen one pointed examples of during the past year or two. He was glad to see that the last speaker by his proposal was coming to a proper view of the case. While the ordinance as it stood was undesirable some provision was required whereby business would be carried on under certain circumstances. In his bill he had adopted the provisions contained in the statutes of Manitoba, Ontario and other provinces.

The bill to empower the town of Edmonton to construct a tramway was read a second time.

The bill respecting municipal assessment was considered at length in committee.

Page and Insinger suggested that as the bill contained two separate and distinct features it should be divided into two parts, the one bill embodying the single tax principle which might be made permissive and the other providing for the assessment of incomes or the laying on of business taxes to be given effect under the present municipal ordinance. The suggestion was not adopted and after discussion progress was reported.

The bill to incorporate the city of Calgary was considered in committee.

Mowat objected to the name city being given as a distinction against other places in the Territories which the present population did not justify.

Oliver said the question of name was not so much a question of population as of powers. If the assembly was willing to grant the city powers asked for in the bill there was no reason why the name city should be withheld.

The section respecting enlargement of boundaries stood over for further information. Several clauses were agreed to and progress reported.

House adjourned at 5:30 to sit again at 8 p. m. the first evening sitting of the session.

EVENING SESSION,

August 31.

Tweed moved a resolution asking that the quarantine now being enforced on account of a disease amongst sheep in the Medicine Hat district be relaxed so as not to effect the sale of healthy sheep which had not been exposed to infection.

The Calgary city incorporation bill was considered in committee. The clause providing that a tax sale of lands shall clear the lands of all encumbrances was allowed to stand. It was pointed out that for the assembly to agree to such a provision would not only effect the security of lands in Calgary but would have a prejudicial effect on securities throughout the Territories. Nearly all the clauses of the bill were agreed to in committee.

REGINA, September 1.

Haultain moved for a sitting on Saturday evening.

Tweed's resolution regarding the quarantine of sheep was passed.

Oliver moved the first reading of a bill to provide for a land tax in the Territories.

Insinger moved the several reading of a bill amending the ordinance of last session which exempted the Manitoba Northwestern railway from taxation for twenty years in case they built 150 miles of line in five years. He explained that he thought it the duty of the house to take cognizance of the change of circumstances in the affairs of the railway, when the bill of last session was passed the charter of the company required the construction of a certain number of miles of railway in each year. As soon as the assembly granted them exemption the company secured an amendment to their railway freeing them from the construction work rendered necessary by their former charter. The present amendment was drawn as to compel them to abide by the terms of their present charter if they were to retain their exemption. A plea had been made to him privately that the company should be treated leniently because they were in and straightened circumstances. This argument should have no more effect on the case of a railway company than in the case of a settler who was in like circumstances. But at any rate it was amply proven during recent legal proceedings in Winnipeg that the company was able to pay current expenses.

Cayley opposed the second reading on the ground that the passage of the bill would be a breach of faith with the company as it materially altered the provisions of a definite bargain.

Haultain said that the company existed by reason of its charter and according to the provisions of its charter. The assembly had made a bargain with the company when building a certain charter. The company now held a new charter which plainly contemplated a failure to carry out the bargain. It was the duty of the house under such circumstances to provide that there should at least be no further drawing back on the part of the company.

McKay, Tweed and Mitchell opposed the second reading and Dill and Oliver supported it.

On motion of Insinger made by request, the debate was adjourned.

The bill to confirm an agreement between the Edmonton electric light company and the town of Edmonton was passed through committee of the whole and stands for third reading on Monday. A hot discussion was brought on by Insinger demanding that the bill should only go into effect after a vote of the ratepayers had been taken as provided in the case of many by-laws, although the petition had been signed by over two-thirds of the ratepayers required to vote on de-benture by-laws, with the object of preventing the establishment of a precedent for allowing such by-laws to go into effect without vote. Oliver said that the essential point of securing the assent of the necessary two-thirds of the ratepayers had been complied with and that in private unlike public legislation each bill stood on its own merits and those of its surroundings, and that therefore a precedent was not necessarily established whether a vote was taken or not.

The bill to empower the town of Edmonton to construct a tramway was considered in committee and progress reported.

The statute labor and fire ordinance was considered in committee. The bill fixes statute labor districts at not more than a township in area and fixes the labor assessment at one day's work for each 100 acres of land held.

EVENING SESSION,

September 1.

The statute labor and fire district ordinance was considered in committee of the whole and progress reported.

The bill respecting unincorporated towns was considered in committee of the whole and progress reported.

The amendments to the elections ordinance were considered in committee of the whole and the several clauses agreed to. The bill was held in committee to permit of an amendment by Mr. Clinksill to provide for stamping instead of initialing ballot papers.

House rose at 10:30.

THE EXODUS FROM CANADA TO THE UNITED STATES.

(From an occasional correspondent)

The following is an item which appeared from the pen of Goldwin Smith, in the Nineteenth Century, touching on the exodus from Canada to the United States. He however omits to take any mention of the great Exodus from the United States to Canada during the past few years, which was policy on his part no doubt. "He says: The exodus from Canada to the United States increases. Already there are a million of Canadian on the south of the line. Some villages in Quebec have lost a great part of their population."

In Ontario almost all the Towns and Villages are stationary or going back and forth. The American Consulate in Toronto has had little else to do during the past year than dispatch emigrants to the United States.

In the city 5,000 houses are vacant, and though this is partly due to over speculating in land, and overbuilding, it is partly due to immigration. It was the president of a conservative association who said the other day that soon "The Americans would have all the men and we should have all the mud".

Toronto is the stronghold of the British sentiment and of the Canadian protectionism which finds fervent love of the mother country available as a safeguard against American competition. Englishmen who visit Canada from their notions of Canadian sentiment from what they hear at Toronto or Ottawa, which, as the official city, is of course the centre of attachment to the existing system. If they went among the farmers, especially in the border countries, they might form a different estimate. "So says Goldwin Smith. Now anyone who has ever taken any interest in immigration matters knows perfectly well that the exodus for the past few years has been decidedly favorable to Canada, and not to the U. S. And it will be more so from this date and don't you forget it. We will know what Ex-President Harrison did to stop immigration into Canada. His tricks are pretty well known to settlers who left Washington State to go to Edmonton district, and we will know what caused the excessive railroad rates, and who put into force the act compelling immigrants going into Canada to hold their stock on the boundary for 90 days. But this was of no avail, they had heard of the country they were going to and go they would. Thousands left Dakota in 1891 and 92 to settle in the Canadian Northwest. Hundreds left Washington State last year and this summer for the same district. Washington which had been once counted one of the richest and best farming and ranching states in the union. It was true that some of the Dakota immigrants were unsatisfied with the appearance of the Edmonton country as they were led to believe that it was entirely a wheat growing country by unscrupulous parties claiming to be immigrant agents. Delegates from Dakota, which I regret to say were a very poor specimen of the kind, returned to Dakota with scandalous reports of the Edmonton country, circulated principally by the petticoat class of delegates who so frequently fly floating around. They said the flies were horribly bad, it was chilly, there was a good many swamps, etc. where they had been and they would not care to make their home in such a country. I recollect a letter I saw in the BULLETIN last spring penned by one of Dakota's woman delegates who would make a very able correspondent for the Police Gazette or Beadles Dime Library, she makes mention of the miserable condition of the Edmonton country, entering into details of the great number of horse flies, mosquitoes, swamps, snowstorms, and summer frosts the country enjoyed during her sojourn in that vicinity. She winds up in a very dramatic manner by saying, "She's going right back to Dakota, the land of her birth, where the birds are singing, the wheat is freezing, and the cyclone is well on its way. I know for a fact that the article written by this woman no doubt made a decided hit among her female friends and some of the male portion of the tribe she represented and was backed up by the delegates who hitched up their cayuses and went into the timber and brush in the Beaver Hills in search of a farm and then returned to Edmonton very indignant, and pronounced the country useless, and fit for nothing but Indians. Returning to Dakota shortly after they commenced a regular siege, and vile communication appeared in their local papers denouncing Northern Alberta as a farming and stock raising country. I recollect a letter in particular which appeared in a Dakota paper? It mentioned the number of delegates that returned from the Canadian Northwest with unsatisfactory reports of the country, and the false representations made to them by agents of the Canadian Government, which was the essence of falsehood, one gentleman in particular, who I believe is now a resident of Alberta, was very unanimous in his declarations against Alberta, to which he had paid a flying visit and returned to Dakota only to back to go Alberta, where he found a home that discounted Dakota all to pieces and was glad to get out of the country where he continually met with losses by either frost, drought, or a cyclone.

Summing up everything the financial state of the United States to-day must sooner or later drive thousands of its population to other countries and undoubtedly the Canadian Northwest will receive a good share of the exodus. Crop reports from Minnesota and Dakota lately do not speak very highly of their farming quality. In conclusion, I earnestly say that the parties who have circulated the scandalous reports of the Canadian Northwest and the treatment they received at the hands of the government are nothing else but hypocrites, and are ever ready to take back at the first opportunity anything they have said, in order to become a resident of the country they denounced.

Yours respectively,
A Canadian in Montana.
